Here and There

A NEW MINISTER

With Mr. St. Laurent's appointment to the office of minister of external affairs, Mr. King gave the world to understand that Canada intends to take her place more fully in international affairs. Until this appointment, the Prime Minister of Canada has always handled foreign relations. The creation of a separate office, together with placing such a capable man such as Mr. St. Laurent at its head, presages a new era in dealing with the world.

Critics of Mr. King who remember that he just returned from the Paris Peace Conference, would have us believe that he realizes his inability to meet present international situations. Others think the war has multiplied his work until one man cannot carry it all. Some suggest that he may be grooming Mr. St. Laurent for more important responsibility. Whatever the truth is, Canada holds a new place in world affairs. Mr. St. Laurent has so grown that he can fill this post with distinction.

Our prestige today is such that we feel responsibility for world peace out of all proportion to our size. It is this need, no doubt that prompted Mr. King to elevate the importance of our foreign office by separating it from his own duties and placing one of Canada's top men at its head.

This should silence those loose thinking Americans who still declare that Canada is tied to Mother Britain's foreign policy. As long as the Prime Minister kept the department under his wing, it gave the impression of not being important. Now that it is a full cabinet post with a strong man guiding it, we will take more interest in it.

Canada will be called upon to make far reaching decisions. Decisions where forethought take precedence over afterthought. It is this latter method which has too often governed our relations with world powers.

"Let things happen," can never be as viable in world affairs as "make things happen."

District Governor Visits Rotary Club

At the regular Monday luncheon, the Raymond Rotary club entertained a distinguished visitor, Allan Patruft of Winnipeg. Mr. Patruft is District Governor of Rotary International and was making his annual tour of western clubs. In his talk he gave the highlights of the Atlantic Conference of Rotary International. The musical part of the program was furnished by two very talented young ladies. Miss Katherine Allen gave piano solos and Miss Katherine Holmes rendered two vocal solos. She was accompanied by Miss Allen at the piano.

After hearing Mr. Patruft, the club went into a discussion of several Town Improvement projects to be sponsored by the Rotary Club this year.

Mrs. O. H. Snow entertained Tuesday afternoon. A pleasant afternoon of visiting and embroidering took up the time. About 30 guests were present. Mrs. Snow was assisted by Mesdames Anne Turner, Norma Meldrum, Emmet Snow and Ethel Snow.

Visiting here from Moses Lake Washington were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cobra and family, guests for a short time of Mrs. F. B. Rolfsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Coyle and daughter of Lethbridge visited over the week end with Mrs. Coyle's father Jos. Hancock.

Born to Dr. and Mrs. Harris Walker a baby girl, Friday September 6th.

Farmers Strike Enters Second Week

The non-delivery strike of the A.F.U. has been on for a week and in the Raymond district it has been relatively quiet with no pickets in operation. The weather has aided greatly in this non delivery of wheat but with the coming of good weather the local branch of the A.F.U. is increasing its watchfulness. The non delivery of milk went into effect Tuesday night but so far deliveries house to house have been carried out with no interference from the strikers. Some farmers have been withholding milk deliveries to the dairies with cream practically non-existent.

Most of the stores are facing an egg and butter shortage, supplies of which will probably run out on the week end. Butter is on ration one pound to the customer to stretch as far as possible.

The object of the non delivery strike is to establish a fact finding board and to establish parity prices a floor price of $1.55 for wheat and the price of all goods which affect farm production cost to be reinstated as of September 10, 1945 with all farm products to be maintained at present levels.

With this curtailment of milk deliveries the pinch will be felt most in the larger centres. Ottawa of course will not feel the strike except the weight of the protests that are going forth now.

Snaps and Scraps

The national flag of Denmark is called Dannebrog (meaning the strength of Denmark). It is the oldest national ensign in use in the world today. There are known to be earlier flags in the world but they are no longer in use. Legend tells us that the Red Flag with the White Cross fell from heaven during the battle of Lyndaness, in the year 1219 when King Waldemar 11 of Denmark and his army was fighting the Estonians. The story says that the king prayed for Divine assistance after which he looked to heaven. There outlined against the sky of blood was the white cross which fell to earth. The Estonians were defeated and the king adopted the white cross on the red field which has been in use ever since for the people of Denmark as a national flag or ensign.

Soil Conservation

SOIL CONSERVATION has been a subject of interest to farmers and agricultural scientists in this country for many years. Members of these groups have long been conscious of the importance of the problems related to soil erosion, but it is doubtful if the population as a whole has realized how serious is the need for prompt and efficient action in this connection. Recent surveys have shown that the acreage of "bad lands", the name applied to areas in which the soil is no longer fertile, is increasing. In 1941 it was found that in the Prairie Provinces alone there were more than four million acres of abandoned farm lands. These lands would have a potential yield of 62,400,000 bushels of wheat each year, an item which would be far from negligible in increasing Canada's contribution to the world's food supply.

Is Common To All Provinces

The subject of soil erosion is dealt with in a recent article published by the Royal Bank of Canada. In this article the writer states that scientists have found that it takes nature about five hundred years to make one inch of good topsoil, "but this precious source of food and living is being washed from beneath our feet, or blown into the air, at terrific rates." The problem is one that is common to every province in Canada, but it has always been especially serious on the Prairies where wind, and the lack of trees in many districts, have kept it always before the people living there. Much has been accomplished under the terms of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act, passed in 1935. This act provides for the reclamation of areas affected by drought and soil drifting and through it, resources of the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture and all other agencies concerned with this work have been combined in an effort to conserve and rehabilitate farm lands in the West.

Many Thousands Have Benefitted

It is estimated that more than fourteen million acres of land in the Prairie Provinces have benefited from the work carried on under the P.F.R.A. Tree planting in connection with the P.F.R.A. has been one of the measures which have been adopted by farmers in co-operation with workers under the P.F.R.A., with the object of conserving moisture and preventing soil erosion. Although many thousands of farmers have benefited from these measures, it is clear that sustained and increasing interest in scientific methods of farming, particularly in respect to this question of soil conservation will be necessary if Western Canada is to remain a great grain-producing land. The writer of the article already referred to, concludes with the observation that: "Soil conservation opens up fresh opportunities like the discovery of a new West. Those who attempt it are transforming nature consciously, according to a plan, not merely taking what nature offers."

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—May I get extra rations for meals served to harvest help?

A.—If your harvest help is planning on staying for more than two weeks, they will be expected to turn over their ration books to you. However, if they are not going to work at your farm for that length of time, you may apply to the local ration board in your district for their rations. You are entitled to extra rations if you serve twelve meals or more.

Q.—When will the three extra sugar-preserves coupons be declared valid?

A.—The ration coupons to cover the purchase of the three additional pounds of sugar for this year will be validated in September and December. On September 19 two of the three extra sugar-preserves coupons will become valid. The other one will be declared valid around December fifth.

Q.—If a ration book holder does not obtain his new book during the distribution dates, when will he be able to pick it up?

A.—Latecomers will not be able to obtain a new book until after September 29. The books will be issued from September 30 until October 15 by a few selected local ration boards. After October 15 only the branches of the ration administration will issue book No. 6. All applications received by the local ration boards after October 15, will be sent to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board offices for attention.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Warm Floors

Are A Very Important Factor In Home Heating

Warm floors have long been considered by heating engineers as one of the most important factors in keeping the home comfortably heated. Cold feet, they say, will quickly lead to general body discomfort and can be the cause of common colds. Warm floors are especially desirable in a home in which there are children because the floor is so often the place where they play.

To provide this essential home heating feature for homes located in the country as well as in town, a Canadian manufacturer has placed on the market this fall a new type of oil space heater that provides warm air circulation at floor level at all times that the heater is in operation. This Coleman Oil Heater is designed to move the heat—and to put the maximum amount of heat into the home by eliminating waste heat up the chimney. The "heat flow" design of the streamlined cabinet of this oil heater permits circulation of an extra large volume of warmed air. It is this circulation or movement of the warmed air plus fast-warm-up radiant heat that keeps floors warm and prevents cold corners in a room. This oil heater is said to provide a complete circulation of freshly warmed air three to five times an hour.

POLIO WARNING

Protect All Foods From Contacts
With Flies

TORONTO.—Renewed warnings to "peel or scrub" all raw fruits was given by the Ontario department of health as the first of "six simple precautions" against infantile paralysis. The department stressed the six "common sense precautions":

1. Peel or scrub all (the word "all" was underscored) raw fruit and vegetables before serving.
2. Protect all food from flies.
3. Teach your children to avoid crowded benches and swimming pools and swimming in dirty water.
4. Avoid over-fatigue and if possible have your children rest for two hours each afternoon.
5. Prevent your children from suffering sudden chills or exposing themselves to too much sun.
6. Make your children wash their hands before eating.

The Canadian Press in a previous story erroneously quoted a report issued by the Canadian Medical Association as warning against raw fruit contaminated by virus-bearing flies. The report actually said the danger lay in raw fruit when unwashed or unpeeled.

This distinction was elaborated by Dr. D. S. Puffer, Ontario's chief medical officer of health, who said peeling or scrubbing was a precaution in all communicable diseases.

"It's not the fruit or vegetable itself that is dangerous," said Dr. Puffer. "It is the contamination which might be placed on the outside by some flying insects and which can be eliminated by peeling or scrubbing."

Salvaging Ships

Drive By British Admiralty Will Save Millions Of Tons

"Frogmen", underwater explorers, are being recruited by Admiralty salvage officials in a big drive to reclaim as many as possible of the 2,500 British merchant ships sunk during the war.

With the "frogmen" and the help of a French secret submarine camera which records how a ship is lying, how badly damaged it is and how best it can be saved, now being negotiated for, the Admiralty experts believe they will be able to salvage millions of tons of shipping and scores of millions of dollars' worth of cargo.

BERKELEY, Calif. — Twenty-five automobiles piled up in a wholesale collision on the six-lane high-speed east shore highway, and at least seven persons were taken to hospital with serious injuries.

Smoke from the Berkeley city dump, swept downward suddenly by atmospheric conditions, obscured the roadway. Four trucks and 12 automobiles had to be towed away. Nine others were able to creep off under power.

Objection By Britain To The Food Proposals

COPENHAGEN.—Britain presented objections to the creation of a world food board after Director-General Sir John Boyd Orr told delegates to the United Nations food and agricultural organization conference that such a plan would "remove some of the causes of war and lead to world unity." Canada favored the board.

Food Minister John Sturges of Britain said that the food board plan, presented formally to the assembly by Sir John for discussion, would not be freed from "certain risks and dangers." The proposals could be "twisted and perverted" to have an opposite effect, he said, and another danger would be to apply the scheme one-sidedly so that "primary producers even without restricting their output might give themselves an unfair advantage against their industrial comrades."

Canada's chief delegate, Agriculture Minister Gardiner, said Canadians were convinced proposals for the board would work. In a 40-minute speech, he recalled the hardships of the '30's among Canadian farmers and the timely restoration of the prairies in wartime which left Canada with three times as much wheat in store when the war ended than she could normally expect to export in a year.

"All that 600,000,000 bushels now has gone where the world needed it," he said.

Earlier Mr. Gardiner was elected chairman of the conference commission on technical questions.

The United States undersecretary of agriculture, Norris E. Dodd, said the United States is "strongly in favor of the objectives laid down" and recommended the establishment of an F.A.O. commission to work out in detail an international program for stabilization of agricultural prices at fair levels.

The Spirit Of Fascism Said To Be Still Alive

PARIS.—Yugoslavia ripped into the four-power decision to internationalize Trieste, and urged that the disputed port be awarded to her and bitterly attacked Italian arguments in the dispute as evidence that "the aggressive spirit of Fascism still was alive."

The attack was launched in the Italian political and territorial commission, one of six peace-conference commissions which convened on problems of the peace.

The military commission approved unanimously four-power recommendations that the Italian army, navy and air force be limited to a total of 297,500 men—only a fraction of wartime strength.

The Balkan economic commission adopted unanimously a Polish amendment which would oblige Romania to restore "all the legal rights and interests in Romania of the United Nations and their nationals as they existed" Sept. 1, 1939, the date Hitler sent troops into Poland, instead of the day Russia entered the war as the foreign ministers had drafted the paragraph.

In the Romanian political and territorial commission, Britain made a move to put the question of Jewish minorities on the agenda by submitting a representation recently made by a number of Jewish organizations headed by the world Jewish congress. It called for the writing of special guarantees of rights for Jews into all treaties with former satellites. It was presented by Gladwyn Jebb, British foreign office attaché, but there was neither action nor discussion.

Yugoslavia's attack on the four-power decision to internationalize Trieste was made by Dr. Ales Bebler, undersecretary for foreign affairs.

He criticized as "absurd and impractical" the French-proposed boundary which the Big Four foreign ministers council adopted in July to divide disputed Venezia Giulia in carrying out internationalization of Trieste.

Shipment Of Phosphates To New Zealand Are Being Resumed

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—New Zealand's production of dairy produce will be greatly assisted by the resumption of phosphate shipments from Nauru and Ocean Islands, two rich phosphate islands near the Equator, which were captured by the Japanese during their advance in the Pacific.

From the enormous deposits of finest grade phosphate on the two islands about 1,250,000 tons were shipped every year before the war. Farming economy in both Australia and New Zealand rested very largely on extensive use of this phosphate as fertilizer to keep the pastures in good condition and permit heavier carriage of stock.

CANADIAN HONORED

Old Norwegian Military Order Conferred On Lt.-Cmdr. Boak

OTTAWA.—One of the oldest military orders in the world has been conferred on Lt.-Cmdr. E. E. B. Boak, D.S.C., of Victoria, navigating officer aboard the 18,000-ton aircraft carrier Warrior.

The order, received for services in Norwegian waters while he was commanding the destroyer H.M.C.S. Sioux, is knight of the First Class of the Royal Order of St. Olav—dating back to the 13th century.

The operation which earned the award took place in March, 1945, when Sioux and three other destroyers were ordered to the Island of Soroy in the mouth of the Alten fiord to evacuate inhabitants who were under shell-fire from the Germans.

Despite the fact that approaches to the island were dominated by a large German naval base at Hamnefest, the destroyers carried out the operation successfully and brought off 300 inhabitants whom they later landed at the approach to Murmansk.

IS FACING TRIAL

Jap Will Be Charged With Atrocities Against British Prisoners

HONG KONG.—The story of Japanese ill-treatment of Canadian prisoners of war aboard the transport Oyama Maru on her trip from Hong Kong to Japan in March, 1942, and during their subsequent detention in Japan, is expected to be heard at the trial of Nishimori Genichiro.

Nishimori, an interpreter, is facing charges of atrocities against British prisoners at a current trial. The British prisoners were on the Lisbon Maru which was torpedoed with 1,816 prisoners of war aboard on a journey from Hong Kong to Japan.

When the Canadians' case against Nishimori comes up, he will be charged with the beating of a member of the Royal Canadian Rifles of Quebec.

Other charges allege that Nishimori beat four Winnipeg Grenadiers—a Sgt. Payne, a L. Cpl. Berzenski, and Ptes. Adams and Ellis—after their escape from a prisoner-of-war camp on Hong Kong.

HAS NEW NAME

Aeropolis Hill Now Known As Franklin D. Roosevelt Park

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C.—Aeropolis Hill, where United States army forces were stationed during the Second Great War, was on Labor Day renamed Franklin D. Roosevelt park in memory of the late president.

The dedication of a cairn at the park was attended by Canadian and United States government officials, and civic and provincial representatives.

General David Hays of San Francisco represented the United States, and in the harbor on a courtesy visit was the American cruiser U.S.S. Tuscon.

HAVE ONE AIM

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich.—S. S. Lo, for eight years Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's private secretary, told a Labor day conference of the moral re-armament assembly that the Chinese national constitutional convention scheduled for November aims to end the one party rule of China and begin the stage of constitutional democracy.

IN GREAT DEMAND

SYDNEY, Australia.—Motorists stormed shops, stores, garages and even manufacturers for automobile tires after the ending of five years of wartime tire rationing in Australia. One company termed the demand "colossal".

Would Free Mankind From Fear Of Hunger

COPENHAGEN.—Delegates and observers representing 51 countries met here to tackle a monumental fight against world hunger, and learned that world supplies of bread grains had improved considerably.

The delegates to the second conference of the United Nations food and agricultural organization heard a report that favorable weather in some areas between May and August had improved the bread grain supply for 1946-47 to such an extent that the formerly indicated gap of from 10,000,000 to 11,000,000 tons between needs and probably supplies had been narrowed to about 8,000,000 tons.

The improvement in supply, however, is contingent upon continuation of the present controls over flour and grains and over the feeding of grain to livestock, the report said.

Sir John Boyd Orr, director-general of F.A.O., told the 700 delegates in his opening address that they could do much to free mankind from the fear of famine and that proposals made at this conference would be fundamental steps in the world battle against starvation.

Before the session opened Sir John presented a plan for the establishment of a world food board to control distribution, and the standing committee on marketing and economics has endorsed it.

The F.A.O. standing committee on economics and marketing in an analysis of the food board plan, said its success depended upon establishment of a system of two prices for farm products in world commerce and encouragement of industrial development throughout the world with the assistance of international loans.

NEW SOVIET LONDON ENVOY

Agence France-Presse, quoting "peace conference sources", says the Russian government has submitted to Britain the name of Georgy Zaroubin, former Russian minister to Canada, as new Soviet ambassador to Canada. Zaroubin would replace Fedor Gusev, who has been named a deputy foreign minister. Zaroubin served as ambassador to Canada at the time of the Soviet spy ring disclosures. The commission on espionage found no evidence Zaroubin was implicated.

TORONTO VIOLINIST

VANCOUVER.—Harry Adaskin, Toronto violinist and former member of the Hart House String Quartette, has been appointed to the chair of music at the University of British Columbia. Mr. Adaskin is widely known throughout Canada as a concert violinist, music commentator and teacher.

MANY GIFT PARCELS

BERLIN.—More than 600,000 private gift relief parcels arrived from the United States for German civilians in the American occupation zone during August, the American military government disclosed.

FOR SERVICEMEN

Resolution Is Urged At A Convention Of Veterans

EDMONTON.—Amnesty and honorable discharge for servicemen serving imprisonment for fraternization with former enemies was urged by the Dominion convention of the Army, Navy, and Air Force Veterans Association.

A resolution submitted by the Ontario command charged that fraternization was not as serious an offense as desertion, yet sentences imposed were more drastic.

Another resolution endorsed by the convention strongly criticized the government's vocational training program. Submitted by the South Vancouver Unit 26, it urged that the present training program be replaced by an apprenticeship plan under which the government and employer would jointly meet expenses of training on a sliding scale.

Under the sliding scale the government would pay 90 per cent. of the cost of wages and the employer 10 per cent, this to be adjusted as the veteran attained skill. In the final year of apprenticeship the employer would be paying 90 per cent. and the government 10 per cent.

Pilot Forced Down Used Timber To Guide His Rescuer

EDMONTON.—A message laid out on the ground with dead timber told a rescue pilot that James Hawkins, Seattle civilian pilot forced down in the bush country 60 miles north of Edson, had struck out on foot through the wilderness for civilization.

Hawkins had been living with a trapper near the spot where he was forced down on a flight from Prince George, British Columbia, to Grande Prairie and it was believed the trapper had gone with him as a guide. Hawkins' message, clearly discernible from the air, simply said "have left for Edson."

Cash Income For Farmers Shows Decline

OTTAWA.—Cash income received by Canadian farmers from the sale of their products during the first six months of this year totalled $633,800,000 against $724,600,000 in the corresponding period of 1945, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

The decline this year continues the decrease recorded in 1945 from the record year 1944, when the cash income received from January to June was $765,100,000.

The bureau said the lower cash income was "almost entirely" the result of small marketings, particularly in the prairie provinces, of wheat, oats, barley and hogs.

Reduced marketings of these products caused decreases in income of $50,000,000 in Saskatchewan, $33,000,000 in Alberta and $7,000,000 in Manitoba. A decrease of about $10,000,000 occurred in Ontario mainly as the result of smaller returns from meat animals.

The bureau added that with more favorable crops in the west this year and a higher initial price for wheat, together with indications for good crops in other provinces, it was probable that income in the last six months of 1946 would be higher than in the same period of 1945 and that the cash income of Canadian farmers consequently would be maintained near the level of 1945.

Estimates of cash income for the half-year by provinces, with figures for the corresponding period of 1945 in brackets, include: Manitoba $51,060,000 ($58,457,000); Saskatchewan $111,706,000 ($162,191,000); Alberta $97,509,000 ($130,954,000).

NEW MEMBERS

Four Additional Countries Have Been Admitted To Food Organization

COPENHAGEN, Denmark.—Italy, Switzerland, Portugal and Eire were elected to membership in the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization, grappling here with the fight against hunger throughout the world. Canada already is a key member of the F.A.O.

Italy and Switzerland joined the 51 original members by unanimous vote. Polish Vice-Premier S. Mikolajczyk objected to Portugal and Eire because they had no diplomatic relations with Warsaw.

The organization heard reports that the diet of many persons would be 1,500 calories daily or lower during the next year, a level which many nutritionists believe inimical to health.

MEALS FOR WORKMEN

NEW DELHI.—A meal for only one anna, (two cents) consisting of chapattis, (wheat cakes) dal, (pulses) and feed water, will be one of the amenities provided for workmen of the N-W Railway mechanical workshops, Lahore, at cooked food canteens which were opened by the railway administration recently.

GREET CHIEF SCOUT

OTTAWA.—Lord Rowallan, chief scout of the British empire, was given a hearty welcome at Lansdowne Park by some 400 Ottawa district scouts.

Brazil has a population of only 442,000,000, but is estimated to have ample room for 900,000,000.

THE PAPER HAZZARD

School started Tuesday; so did the paper hazzard. Main street is knee deep with scrap paper.

A person can't help but notice it, because he has to walk with his eyes on the sidewalk to find an even place to put his feet. The sidewalk situation will rectify itself with the coming of materials, but, the paper situation in Town must wait upon the taking effect of a concerted effort of every man, woman and child in the Town of Raymond to stop it.

First, we need containers at certain intervals along main street — receptacles for paper and empty cartons, etc. Secondly, they must be firmly anchored, to resist the efforts of the more ambitious ones to remove them, rather than put refuse in them. Next (and we have mentioned this before), we need proper incinerators at the rear of the business blocks, to burn the refuse there. Our prevailing west wind has a tendency to deposit all the refuse it picks up, along main street.

If refuse containers are put up along main street, the services of a garbage collector must be enlisted, and proper garbage collection, town wide, would not be a bad idea.

Parents, school teachers, service clubs and all public spirited citizens should go all out to insist that the waste paper situation be cleaned up. We feel the Town Council should point the way with sudden and drastic action at once. Get it started this fall and it will be ready to work in the spring. Parents and school teachers should point out the necessity of depositing popsicle wrappers and sticks in containers or carrying them until they can be put where they won't be annoyingly unsightly.

The business men in the town deserve the co-operation of every citizen to clean up the mess and keep it clean. It is the poorest advertising to outsiders to see a bank of papers rolling up and down main street in the wind. They probably figure that a town that will let their streets look like that all the time probably does business the same way.

WHAT ABOUT IT? We say—proper refuse containers along main street — proper incinerators along the rear of the business blocks — proper garbage collection, town wide, run by the town — the irremovable fluger to point at all persons, large or small, who have so little pride as to throw waste paper on the sidewalk.

"MY WEEK"

by R. J. Deachman

The holidays are over and now alas, work again. But I am far from complaining. Holidays are all right in their place but a life with nothing else but holidays would bring the sadness of despair. I love to work to see the wheels go around, even if they produce nothing but stories for other people to read.

When I was on holidays, I wrote an item about a hawk and a fish, told how the hawk swept down over the water, dived in, picked up a fish with its talons, flew away, dropped it, came back again, dived in once more and finally landed it—fish dinner for a hawk! A man who read the story told me the other day that he was rather angry with me because my sympathies were with the hawk, his were with the fish. That fish had every advantage. It was in its own element. It could have kept out of reach of the hawk, no particular skill was required in doing so, but the hawk, that was different. His effort required skill and ability and a nice co-ordination of mind and muscle. Of course the hawk had my sympathy.

Now if it had been a man and a fish my sympathy would have been with the fish. Man has science on his side, he has intelligence. Let him go out with his bare hands, dive in and catch a fish and I would be glad to give him my O.B.E. If I had one to give, but when he tackles the job with high power equipment I just laugh when the big ones get away. As for the hawk, here's hoping he has good fishing all summer—even a hawk must live.

Sombody told me that the wool socks I wanted to get were not available because of a wool pool which was holding up the price of wool with the deadly objective of making a profit in it. Now wait a minute! Just over a year ago the London Wool Conference estimated that it would take thirteen years to dispose of the stocks of wool. Last week it was announced that 40 percent had already disappeared.

What happened during the war? Britain took over the wool of what might be called, the "Wool Donor" Australia, New Zealand, South Africa. The sales during the past year were of record proportions, 2,520 million pounds of wool, equal to twice the current clip of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. France, Belgium and Italy had been swept bare of wool, they absorbed over a quarter of the total sales. Large quantities were also purchased by UNRRA and by other European countries. The United Kingdom, U.S.A. and Canada alone absorbed an amount equal to the clip of the current year.

How could it be otherwise? Thousands of returned soldiers stocked up on new clothes and we stood back a little to let them have a chance. They together with normal consumption has taken a lot of wool. It would be foolish to throw it all on the market at once, it was better in the interests of all concerned to liquidate it gradually. There are a great many of our guides, temporal and spiritual, who, without knowing the facts, take a particular delight in suggesting that an evil spirit has got hold of things that everything is wrong, and, of course, the capitalists are to blame!

Here's another story about scarcity. A neighbor woman says she can't get sugar to "do up" her peaches and pears. She tells me that the shops are full of it. I am just cussed enough to believe that the average shopkeeper would be glad to sell tons and tons of it if he had it, providing, of course some silly regulation does not prevent him doing so. When we divert the man-power of the world from normal production to war, shortages must follow and it will take some time to catch up on a number of things. Then shipping is scarce. Sugar plantations, in some cases, have been destroyed. It was difficult to find labor for our own sugar beet fields. Be patient the time will come (continued on next page) when we shall have sugar enough and to spare.

On the front page of the Edmonton Journal-Bulletin I saw, in a recent issue, a picture of a wheat field and, in the background a town, with elevators, a church and in the town I knew without seeing them, were banks, stores, garages and all other things which go to make life on the prairies.

I have seen that picture with my own eyes a thousand times, from Morden to Dauphin, from Prince Albert to Edmonton, to Oids, High River, Lethbridge and all other towns, north, south, east and west. I grow lonesome when I think of it. It is one of the greatest pleasures of life to be in the west at harvest time—to see the fruit of a year's effort rolling into the elevators, moving forward on the railways down to the terminals, out to the ocean ports and over the seas to the markets of the world. I see it often now, picture it clearly in my mind. These are things which will abide with me till falls life's eventide.

WEEKLY LETTER

Rescue Wheat Available this Fall
Sawfly resistant wheat for the farmers of southern Alberta is now available. The new variety "Rescue" developed at the Swift Current Experimental Station, was grown this year on 21 farms in southern Alberta and there is a fair amount of general distribution this fall.
Rescue wheat is recommended only for those districts where sawfly has become a problem. It is not desirable in districts where heavy growth is usual as it has a tendency to lodge. In our tests it has yielded almost as much as Thatcher and more than Marquis and is satisfactory as a combine wheat. However, the results of baking tests will not permit a higher grade than No. 3 Northern. This is a serious defect of the variety but owing to the fact that it is sawfly resistant the demand for it is great.

The distribution of Rescue wheat in Southern Alberta is being directed by the Experimental Station, Lethbridge. The salient features of the distribution policy are as follows:
1. Ten bushels of wheat will be sold to each bona fide farmer applicant for his own use, at $2.00 per bushel plus the cost of sacks and transportation charges.

2. Applications should be sent to the nearest grower (names of growers are listed below) or the Dominion Experimental Station, Lethbridge. Applications will be filled in the order received. The only information required is the applicant's name, post office address, nearest railway station, and land location. Growers ask that delivery be taken at the farm if possible.

Applicants will receive notice when the seed is available and from which grower they are to take delivery. Payment will be made direct to the grower indicated in the notice. Pay ment must not be sent to the Lethbridge Experimental Station. The following will accept applications:

W.A. Helden, Acadia Valley, J. Barnes, Bladloss, D.L. Reynolds, Charlesholm, J.L. Braum, Crumville, C.G. Wolfe, Foremost, R.M. Benson, Lomond, J.O. Andrew, Drumheller, Chr's T. Cheap Labor

Surplus Population Of Italy Is Planning To Emigrate

ROME.—Large numbers of Italy's surplus population of 15,000,000 are storming the consulates of the United States, South America and France, hoping to start new lives in more agreeable surroundings.

Their first choice is the United States; second, Argentina or Brazil, and third, France, Belgium or Switzerland. The U.S. quota allows for 5,800 immigrants a year, but there are already 300,000 applications on file with the Italian foreign office.

Of the 750,000 Italians who will emigrate during the next three years, however, only about 400,000 are expected to remain abroad permanently. The remainder—especially those who go to France and Switzerland—probably will stay a few years and come back home.

Approximately 30,000 Italians are expected to emigrate to Brazil. No more than 25,000 will go to Argentina. A shortage of transport will limit all emigration to South America. Count Secco-Suardo, general director of Italian emigration, doesn't believe that emigration is the answer to the current escapist attitude among Italians.

"The best solution for the overpopulation and unemployment problems in the immediate future," he said, "is the investment of United States capital in the Italian basic industries. This would be especially profitable in southern Italy, where labor is cheap."

Secco-Suardo reasons that it is better for one man to get a job in Italy than for five Italians to leave the country. Those who remain, probably will support a family or four or five, he said, but those who emigrate often are not able to send money back to their families.

"This problem is not specifically Italian," Secco-Suardo said. "Because the other 45,000,000 Italians are not going to lie down and die supinely. And the manner in which the Paris peace conference solves this problem will determine—to a large extent—the future peace of the world."

Secco-Suardo said he believed that treatment of Italian immigrants in other countries would indicate "either good will, indifference or hatred toward the Italian people" as a whole. Emigration, he said, "is a matter of mutual trust."

Soon, no doubt, color photographs of, say, a London procession will be appearing in Australia the following day.

BE SURE OF YOUR WATER SUPPLY

In many cases, the water supply is a very real problem to the rural population of the prairie provinces.

To answer the question, "When is a water supply safe for drinking and domestic use?" two suggestions are offered. The first is to have a sample of the water analyzed by a Provincial Department of Health Laboratory, and the other is to learn how wells and other water supplies receive pollution, and how they can be protected.

However, it is well to remember that while reports on analyses furnish useful information the bacteriological content of water may vary from time to time, and a correct interpretation of the quality can be made only after several samples, taken over a period of time, have been examined. One good analysis does not necessarily mean a safe water at all times.

When water shows contamination it is well to determine the origin of the pollution, and by what channel it reached the supply. This is not difficult when knowledge on probable sources of contamination is available.

Rural water supplies are taken chiefly from shallow dug wells, and these offer the least resistance of any type to drainage and contaminating matter. It is known that the most common portals through which pollution may reach a well are (a) the top and sides near the surface, and (b) the underground drainage or water supply feeding the well. The latter is uncommon except where the well is constructed in fissured rock or where the ground water is close to the surface.

Pollution of shallow dug wells through the tops and sides is by far the most common occurrence. When these are not watertight, rain-water and washings from the pump spout will carry into the well any dirt and germs which have been left on or near the well by animals or from other sources.

These wells can be protected against surface drainage. The top and the sides for a distance of 10 feet below the surface should be watertight. Care is needed to ensure that no drainage can enter around the pump base or at the manhole at the top.

A temporary method of disinfecting a well consists of emptying the contents of a small package of chloride of lime (about 12 ozs.) into a pail, adding a little water and mixing to a paste, care being taken to break up all the lumps. The pail is then filled with water and the contents stirred and allowed to settle to the bottom. The supernatant, or surface, liquor is then poured into the well and allowed to stand overnight. The well is then pumped out until no taste is present in the water.

Bacteriological samples should be sent for analyses at regular intervals after this treatment has been applied. Should poor analyses continue the well should be reconstructed, a new supply obtained or each pailful of water treated as it is drawn from the well.

This can be accomplished by boiling or chlorination. If the water is brought to the boiling point, even without boiling for any period, the disease organisms will be destroyed. Some Provincial Departments of Health have available for public distribution small chlorine outfits—reasonably priced—which can be used to treat water instead of boiling.

Many English School Children Corresponding With French Children

A scheme to link English schools with schools in Belgium and to put individual children in the two countries in touch with one another is announced by Britain's Ministry of Education. Its purpose is to improve Anglo-Belgian relations by the exchange of correspondence and by pairing schools of similar interests and background with a view to the interchange of pupils and holiday visits. A similar scheme between France and Britain was started in November last and has created wide interest. Fifteen thousand children in English schools are now corresponding with a similar number of French children and 250 schools in Britain have been directly linked with schools in France.

Limpet Mine

Was Used To Sabotage A British Ship In Palestine Area

JERUSALEM.—The British army announced, after a two-day search of the Sedat Yam area, that it had found a limpet mine such as was used to sabotage the refugee ship Empire Rival.

Specially trained dogs found the mine, similar to one attached to the hull of the Empire Rival, as she was about to pull out for Cyprus with a group of Jewish refugees. Four thousand troops carried out an intense search of the coastal area around Sedat Yam below Haifa. Their trained dogs found a mine without explosive, together with equipment like that worn by the "frogmen" who attached the mine to the ship.

Need Price Controls

Were A Wartime Success And Should Be Continued

Price controls were a wartime success because there was a general willingness to make the effort required to maintain them. This year, particularly, no such effort is apparent. The result is not reassuring. Perhaps Hon. D. C. Abbott was wasting words when he called for "moderation on the part of labor, business, farmers, and other producer groups." Just the same, his appeal has reason behind it. It was recognition of the need for moderation that made wartime controls a success. Canadians, in their own interests, should try to recapture that spirit. The alternative—extremely disturbed, perhaps even chaotic conditions—can only commend itself to rapacious speculators.—Windsor Star.

Undergo Tests

Plan Is Started For Training Diplomats In England

A new system of training diplomats has been started at the government training centre at Cobham, Surrey. Under it, future ambassadors will pile up bricks, together, patiently, and demonstrate their parlor manners before the inquisitive eyes of psychologists.

Candidates for key jobs in the foreign and domestic service must undergo the three-day test at Stoke d'Abernon Manor, which was used during the war by the army for similar purposes. Only a few are passed.

The candidates come as "guests", being greeted by a pleasant hostess who pins on each a number by which he is known during his stay. The staff live in the main house while the visitors are put up in comfortable army huts nearby.

Special observers are in each group, watching the candidates as they undergo tests, eat their meals or relax in a well-supplied bar. Quizzes are conducted, and all sorts of annoying, petty tasks—including the dismantling and reassembling of a water tank—are imposed.

Patience and tact are two prime factors sought. Of 700 foreign office candidates tested last summer, 15 were passed and 670 rejected. The others, it was placed on the reserve and may still be called.

VALUABLE CARGO

The British South American Airways Corporation has found it necessary to install safes in its planes. In recent weeks diamonds, emeralds, rubies and even snakes have been transported along the air lines. So much valuable freight was being carried that specially-designed strongboxes were made standard equipment on the London-South America run.

CITIZENSHIP LAW

Changes Have Been Made In Britain To Help Many Who Were Married During Wartime

The forthcoming changes in the British citizenship law announced by Mr. Chuter Ede, Home Secretary, on August 1st have special importance at the present time because of the large number of British women who married servicemen from other countries.

Under the existing law, a British woman who marries an alien loses her British citizenship if, by the law of her husband's country, she acquires his citizenship. This rule does not affect those British women who married American servicemen; they retain British citizenship since they did not become American citizens by marriage. But those who married servicemen of certain other countries acquired their husband's citizenship on marriage, and therefore automatically lost their British citizenship. The law will now be changed so that a British woman will never lose her citizenship by marriage.

Another aspect of the existing law is that a non-British woman who marries a British man automatically acquires British citizenship. This, too, will be changed under the new legislation. In future the alien wife of a Briton will have to apply for naturalization in order to become a British citizen herself.

These forthcoming changes have long been urged by women's organizations. The rule that a British woman loses citizenship by marriage to an alien dates from 1878, and until 1933 she lost her own citizenship whether or not she acquired her husband's.

She might, therefore, become stateless, e.g. by marriage to an American. In 1933 the law was changed to eliminate this possibility; from then until the present time, a British woman would lose her citizenship only if she acquired her husband's citizenship. The 1933 Act was regarded by women's organizations as entirely inadequate. But the difficulty was that, by a long-standing convention, the law governing British citizenship can only be changed in agreement with the Dominions, and these nations could not agree to make a woman's citizenship entirely independent of that of her husband. Agreement on this principle was, however, reached in conferences of experts from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the United Kingdom during the last few months, and later this year another conference of experts will work out the details.

When passed, the new citizenship Act will take its place in the long list of measures which have equalized the rights of British women with those of men.

"I'M SORRY, Jones," boomed the large man behind the highly polished desk, "but the man I want as my Assistant Sales Manager must be an aggressive individual—a man of action with plenty of fight."

"I know, sir, but—" "Yes, I know what you mean," broke in the big man, "I realize that you have been with us for a good many years, and your work in the outer office has been excellent, but, well—as I say, I want a man with plenty of fight, and you just do not have that quality. I'm sorry."

"Yes sir," breathed Cuthbert Jones, who was a small-statured little man in his late fifties, with a good-natured frown to match. The girl typing in the outer office was watching Cuthbert come out of the manager's office and take his place at the worn desk. She had worked with him for a long time, and had come to know him well—also his faults. She felt sorry for him now.

"I'm sorry, Cuthbert," she said, as she laid an understanding hand on his shoulder. "I wouldn't take it so hard if I were you."

"Thank you, Miss Simms," Cuthbert sighed. "You see, it wasn't the extra money that went with the job, but I so wanted to be able to go home and tell Belle that I finally amounted to something."

"Well, never you mind," the girl said. "Come and have coffee. Our rest period is in ten minutes."

"I believe I—oh my goodness," Cuthbert exclaimed, glancing at his watch, "it is almost three o'clock. I must hurry over to the bank with the day's receipts before they close. I'll have a cup when I return if you will keep it warm for me."

Not waiting for an answer, he squirmed into his overcoat and darted swiftly toward the door.

"Going down, Sam?" Cuthbert asked, as the doors of the elevator opened.

"Down it is," replied the operator.

"You look a little worried," observed Sam. "Something go wrong today?"

"Like I told you before, Sam," Cuthbert sighed again, "my wife has been nagging me as usual about asking the boss for that job, and this morning she threatened to pack up and leave me."

"By the expression you're wearing, it would appear that you did ask and were refused," the old man said knowingly.

"That's it, Sam," replied Cuthbert. "Our house is going to be awfully quiet from now on, I guess."

Cuthbert's brain was working overtime as he made his way through the traffic. What was he going to tell Belle? He wondered what train she would leave on, the early one or the late one. His stomach sickened at the thought of eating hamburgers and the like at the corner.

These morbid thoughts were interrupted by the town clock pealing off the hour of three. He broke into a run at the thought of being late. Thirty years of going to the bank for the same firm and never late once.

Lucky, the doors were still open. Cuthbert sped through the entrance with the speed of a greyhound, at the same time shouting, "hold it," at the top of his voice, fearing that the teller might close the window.

What the timid little man failed to see in his haste, was a burly individual, coat collar turned up, standing in front of the teller's cage. At the sound of Cuthbert's words, the man swung around. Seemingly from nowhere, two men of the bank seized their opportunity to grapple with the fellow.

All the while, Cuthbert stood staring, eyes and mouth wide open. Then with a groan, he sagged to the floor in a dead faint.

He awoke to find himself looking into admiring faces, including, of all people—his boss.

"Cuthbert," boomed the large man, as only he could boom, "you were wonderful. The bank manager phoned me and told me all about it. To think of you being the means of outwitting that robber."

"But really, sir—" Cuthbert started to explain.

"I know, I know," cut in the man, with the machine-gun voice, "you're just being modest—I knew all along that you had the stuff it takes. Tomorrow morning, Jones, you will take over the job of Assistant Sales Manager, but now I'm personally driving you home."

Cuthbert gave up trying to explain the situation to his boss, one just does not have nerve to contradict.

Reaching home, the little man was met at the door by his wife who hardly waited until his hat was off before demanding what he had done about what.

He assured her that he had and that he would start his new duties in the morning.

She threw both arms about the little man, almost shutting his wind off. "I told you that if you would only ask for the job you would get it."

"Yes, you're so right, dear," Cuthbert said.

The hard way, he thought.

Permanent Organization In U.S. Vote Against Welcoming It

NEW YORK.—Residents of Harrison, N.Y., an upstate town involved in the proposed site for a permanent United Nations home, have voted two to one against welcoming the peace organization, adding to a series of rebuffs which Clark M. Eichelberger, director of the American Association for the United Nations said was "approaching a disgrace to the American people."

Votes were counted in Harrison in a postcard poll conducted by the Chamber of Commerce. The result was 2,050 against the U.N. and 1,050 in favor of welcoming it.

As the votes were being counted Mr. Eichelberger spoke over a local radio station and charged the United States government had evaded "an important responsibility" by failing to aid the U.N. to find a permanent home.

When the U.N. decided to locate in the United States the federal administration declined to enter into any discussion on selection of the site, presumably because it was not desirable that Washington should display any partiality as between states.

Meanwhile work is being rushed to completion on the $2,000,000 job of reconstruction on the Sperry plant at Lake Success on nearby Long Island, which will be the U.N. headquarters until a permanent home is ready, a period estimated at from three to five years.

The 11-power security council will formally launch the new headquarters when it holds the first session there of any of the organization's various units.

CHEAP ENGINE FUEL

Model Of Rectifier Using New Gas Has Been Tested

Development of an inexpensive method of making use of atomic energy which eventually is expected to power a locomotive from coast-to-coast at a cost of less than one dollar, was announced by the Buffalo Machinery Co.

F. Alden Miller, vice-president, said the company had developed a rectifier which produces a combustible gas from a commercial type of atomic "C" uranium.

He described an experimental model as about 24 inches high, tubular in shape and built of high-tensile steel to withstand a pressure of 6,000 pounds per square inch. This had been used to brew a pot of coffee "just as a sideshow."

Mr. Miller said the device contained a chamber for a six-ounce charge consisting of 1-640 of grain of atomic "C" dissipated into six ounces of inert material (wood ash). Saturated with water, the charge produced a gas for which no name has yet been chosen.

Acknowledging that the present costs are high, Mr. Miller said "the best advice we can get indicate that atomic 'C' eventually can be bought for between 50 cents and a dollar a pound."

"It would take only about one pound to operate a locomotive for four days—long enough to travel from coast-to-coast."

Means Big Loss

Income Of Prairie Farmers Greatly Reduced By Weeds

Weed control is of vast importance to agriculture. The lot of the prairie farmer is hampered by weeds which mean less income and more work. It is estimated that the annual income of the three prairie provinces is reduced by some $25,000,000 every year through decreased crop yields caused by weeds. To eradicate them by culture is a long and expensive process. Some feasible method of destroying weeds would save much of the loss to farmers. It needs to be a cheap and easy method of eradication, too. Then there is the drawback of the indifferent farmer who permits the growth of weeds upon his land. All the regulations and warnings seem not to affect the lazy agricultural sectionalist. Weed growers should be more sternly handled. Then nearby cities provide prolific breeding ground for sending weed seeds out over outlying territories. Wind-blown harvests of seeds from careless and indifferent towns and cities also are a loss to farmers adjacent thereto.—Braddon Sun.

SMILE AWHILE

Walking into a hospital ward a man approached a nurse and said, "What kind of a ward is this?" The nurse replied, "All the patients in here were struck by automobiles." . . . The visitor absently replied, "Looks like a bumper crop to me."

Phyl: "What did your husband think about that expensive new hat you bought last week?" Flo: "He just raved about it."

Mistress: "Look here, Mary. This chair is covered with dust." Mary: "Yes, ma'am. I reckon nobody has sat in it lately."

"I hear your wife is of an athletic disposition." "You're telling me. She's unbreakable in jumping to conclusions and running up bills."

"I must find another tailor. This one reads too much." "Reads too much?" "Yes. Every time he writes to me he begins, 'On going through my books!'"

Miss Vance: "Some one told me today that I was the handsomest girl in the street." Miss Speitz: "Oh, that's not inaccurate!"

"What do you mean?" "Your habit of talking to yourself."

"I suppose," said the recruit to his new chum, "you used to do big things in civil life?" "I did that," was the answer. "I had a job washing elephants at the zoo."

"It must be hard to keep time on this ship."

"How is that?" "Well, I just heard the captain say he uses four watches a night!"

Old Gentleman—"You're an honest boy, but it was a $10 bill I dropped, not ten ones." Youngster—"I know, mister, but the last time I found a $10 bill the man didn't have my change."

Mrs. Jones barged into the grocery store and briskly asked: Remember that cheese you sold me yesterday?"

Grocer: "Yes, madam." Mrs. Jones: "Did you say it was imported or deported from Switzerland?"

Judge—"Why did you strike this dentist?"

Accused—"He got on my nerves."

Magnate (to hard-up sailor)—"Young man, do you know how I made my money?"

Young Man—"Yes, but I can't permit that to stand in the way of Marie's happiness."

Turkish Captain

Premier Marshal Tito Has Ordered His Release

LONDON.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Ankara said that Premier Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia had ordered the release of a Turkish captain who was wounded Aug. 9 when an American transport plane on which he was a passenger was forced down by Yugoslav fighters.

The officer had been detained by the Yugoslav government, although others aboard the plane were released, following a United States ultimatum.

There had been unofficial press reports that the officer, Capt. Ihsan Unesen, would be held by Yugoslav authorities for trial as a spy.

His release, the dispatch said, was the result of representations by the Turkish ambassador in Belgrade.

Used to be Bilious and Constipated

But Happy Days Here Again
Since Relief Was Found

Bilious attacks, headaches and constipation made life a burden to this mother of ten children. Thence started on a simple plan which she has never regretted. For ten years, the "little morning dose" of Kruschen has helped to keep her well, as she tells in this letter:

"I have put my faith in Kruschen Salts for at least ten years. I used to suffer with nasty bilious spells, headaches and constipation. I wish I had taken Kruschen sooner. I am 46 years old and have had ten children. Thanks to my little morning dose of Kruschen I am free from constipation and I feel fine."—(Mrs.) C. H. Coventry.

It is reasonable to ask why this woman's headaches, constipation and biliousness were so happily relieved by Kruschen. The answer is that Kruschen is made up of six minerals or salts and when you take Kruschen regularly for a while, your stomach, liver, kidneys and your digestion are benefited. And that—as you know—is a big help in keeping regular and feeling fit. All druggists have Kruschen Salts; price 25c and 50c. Try them yourself and take just enough to suit you as a morning dose.

WHEN WE REALLY TRY

There is in our nature a far greater power than most of us ever use. We discover this by the extraordinary things we do when we are put to it. . . . when we make up our minds. . . . There come times when we have to make up our minds if we are going to stop that evil thing in us in time to save being wrecked by it, if we are going to embark upon that enterprise for the well-being of humanity before the night overtakes us.

In the hands of the Indians of Brazil the blow-gun is a deadly weapon. They can kill birds with it at a distance of 200 yards.
